A VISIT TO THE FAIR AT SEATTLE

OLYMPIA W T Oct 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The far famed W W I A or in more extended language [illegible] the Western Washington Industrial Association have held their annual fair for 1873 have decided that the moon is not made of green cheese that a stalk of held corn should not be allowed to grow more than twenty feet high that Washington Territory produces better fruit vegetables and more pretty girls than any other State in the Union which is saying considerable in advance

Seattle one of the loveliest locations on the Sound for a terminus having been selected by the association for the purpose of holding their fair, your faithful correspondent together with about sixty other Olympians took passage on the noble steamship Zephyr on last Tuesday morning, for the Mecca of the great Northwest, making the trip safely in eight hours and arriving in Seattle about 4 P M After refreshing the inner man we proceeded to the Fair grounds, situate on and in the Territorial University, from which the most lovely view of the Sound is visible and the sunset scene from the hill well worthy a painter's visit The only objectionable part in the ascent is the intolerable dust "Oh the dust, the dust, the horrible dust" would be the exclamation of the poet, and in all truth the sandy deserts of Arizona can hardly beat it Well, on our arrival we found everybody rushing around with boxes, flowers baskets and parcels of all kinds preparing for exhibition but owing to the short notice given but little was in order, and Chaos reigned supreme until the Committee of arrangements put their shoulders to the wheel and Mr R H Hewitt being appointed General Superintendent, things began to take a more orderly aspect Notwithstanding, it was not until Thursday morning that the public could be admitted and from that until Saturday evening when the Fair closed, the flow of visitors was unceasing.

We first took a ramble through the grounds which with due attention could be made the most attractive spot in the city and in the enclosure we found two Cotswold grade rams living next door to their respected mother, and exhibited by J Baxter Whatcom county a family of five sheep from General Stevens farm, and a pen full of Angora goats ready to turn into ladies shawls on the shortest notice The hog pens next took our attention all of them seeming to take it easy by sleeping steadily and snoring fearfully, excepting one specimen which only weighed 834 pounds, and was rather large for his size A good many living specimens of beef were also present, surrounded by a mule as large as a good sized dog, and a small pony. Having viewed everything to be seen outside, we entered the building, and found the articles on exhibition up stairs in a good sized hall, and everything tastefully arranged evidently under the supervision of some fair ladies who were present in large numbers and seemed to enjoy the pushing and squeezing The first thing visible after entering the hall was a well stocked bar as exhibited by Levy Bros containing liquors extracts &c on a good-sized scale Speaking of bars reminds me that there are too many of them to be seen in Seattle for its future prosperity and the sooner the number is cut down and the M B Society done away with, the better it will be for the financial condition of the city and county

Not having as much time at our disposal as we would wish, we were compelled to take only a hasty look at the articles exhibited, without regard to the names of exhibitors The following were some of the articles coming under our notice Bouquets composed of dried flowers butter, jellies, preserves &c, rag carpets, geraniums and a beautiful collection of flowers, wax crosses miniature ship wax and feather wreaths, wood moss basket containing a rustic cross and surrounded by immortelles one of the prettiest articles on exhibition

Then we had tidies and worsted work in abundance, and enough of quilts to furnish a large lodging house, a beautifully carved Japanese mirror, shell frames, crosses of dried flowers, specimens of coin, watch movements and jewelry, in the case containing the latter was an I O O F jewel, said to have been part of a cannon used in the war of 1812 afterward cast into a bell for one of the churches destroyed by the late fire

Another curiosity was a bed curtain woven by Mrs Whitworth's mother in 1792 and in constant use for eighty years Specimen of job printing done in the Courier office The supply of fruit on exhibition was the largest I have seen and very captivating to the young people of both sexes who seemed naturally attracted to it Green & Dahlon had a large show case full of boots and shoes, the only one there

The drug store of Kelly & Carney was also largely represented Several cages full of canaries discoursed lovely music during the day, and at night Mr White s quadrille band did the same on a large scale The Anvil Polka was performed with full accompaniment each night by particular request and seemed to create quite a sensation Mr Coulter of Olympia had a large supply of tubs, churns, buckets and other cooperage on exhibition, and a stove exhibited by S P Andrews, of Seattle, drew considerable attention The defunct beef market was very largely represented and we were told that good beef in Seattle only costs four cents per pound

The supply of flour wheat oats peas beans etc was very good and we noticed one stalk of field corn measuring about 15 feet in height

Vegetables looked in splendid order and told well for our Territorial productions A curiosity in potatoes was exhibited by Master F Horton of Olympia which weighed six pounds—enough for half a dozen meals

Leather door mouldings, window [illegible] and furniture were on exhibition down stairs and looked well for the industry of our mechanics

Taken altogether the Fair was quite a success, financially and otherwise and we have no doubt will become one of our institutions if only backed by our citizens and the farmers of our Territory

On Friday evening a large ball was given in the Pavilion which was crowded to excess on the occasion the music being furnished by the Fair band Dancing was kept up till 3 o clock when all separated well pleased with the exercises they had enjoyed

On Saturday the annual address was delivered by Hon [illegible] Eldridge and on Saturday evening Hon [illegible] Evans addressed the crowd on the merits of the Centennial Exhibition to be held in Philadelphia in 1876 On the same evening the following Directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year Dr [illegible] Kellogg Island County Edward Eldridge Whatcom [illegible] Baxter Whatcom H A March Whatcom [illegible] King R R Robbins King [illegible] Lawton King [illegible] Whitworth King [illegible] Thurston C A Barnes Thurston W O Bush Thurston [illegible] H Hewitt Thurston A A Manning Thurston after which the following officers were appointed [illegible] Kellogg President [illegible] Eldridge Vice President C A Barnes Treasurer R H Hewitt [illegible] Secretary G F Whitworth Corresponding Secretary

The next place of meeting [illegible] for the purpose of holding the [illegible] Fair [illegible] W T the time to be [illegible] between the [illegible] 15th and 20th of September 1874

The [illegible] Captain [illegible] the Zephyr [illegible] Wright made the trip to Olympia [illegible] morning in five hours [illegible] who were anxious to get home

And thus ends my visit to the Seattle Fair

During the latter part of last week the horizon [illegible] northerly direction from Walla Walla was brilliantly lighted up at night and had the appearance of a northern light After admiring the beautiful phenomenon in nature it turned out to be the result of extensive fires in the hills between the Touchet A large scope of country between that stream and Snake river is completely denuded of grass

OREGON STATE FAIR.

Thirteenth Annual Fair of the Oregon State Agricultural Society.

Second Day

SALEM Oct 7, 1873

The morning opened cool and cloudy with an aspect in heating rain At 7 o drops began to fall at 8 A M it increased to a considerable shower and continued a steady wetting rain till noon when the dark heavy clouds began to disperse and hope filled the breast of all that the remainder of the day would be dry The prevailing impression is that the rain is over for the balance of the week and that the showers that have fallen will lay the dust and put the roads in fine condition for traveling The expectation of a dry afternoon was not realized for by 2 o clock the rain came down heavier and faster than in the forenoon and continued so until the evening train left for Portland

The departments are steadily and rapidly filling up The exhibitions up to this time far exceed any former year The impression is universal that the Fair will be a grand success in the attendance of farmers, their families, and influential visitors in the variety extent and completeness of the exhibitions and in ample funds to cover expenses

At 10 30 A M a large audience gathered at the Pavilion to hear the Opening Address by President Wilkins.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the State Agricultural Society —According to established custom it becomes my duty as presiding officer of the Society to address you at this our Thirteenth Annual Fair

It also devolves upon me to select some one to deliver the Annual Address. I have engaged the services of Mr Thomas Condon (State Geologist) who, no doubt, will have an entertaining address, and I hope to see an attendance worthy of the occasion

Now ladies and gentlemen I do not expect to be able to interest you, to any great extent in talking but with the assistance of the other officers I hope to be able to conduct this week s Fair satisfactorily to all and in that I cordially invite the co-operation of all good citizens.

The object of this Society is justice to all holding that merit alone is deserving of honor and true merit is works instead of words, and should any feel that injustice has been done them let them at once apply to the Board of Managers

Now the object in view of holding fairs is to bring man in contact with man in a useful and pleasant sense, and compare product with product the skill displayed with one implement with that of another and mind with mind so that the desired object of life, and the end arrived at, may be accomplished with the least expense and in the shortest time also to enlist the feelings of each in the welfare of all And I believe the influence that Agricultural and Mechanical Fairs have had upon the social condition and standing of the laboring classes and upon the general prosperity of our country cannot be too highly appreciated All will surely admit that since fairs have become fixed institutions in the various sections of our country, a fresh impulse has awakened in every branch of industry and public improvement and especially is this so in agricultural and mechanical pursuits.

I cannot but express my sincere commendation of the noble object our organization has in view For I fully believe the thrifty improvement and the advancement of the commonwealth of the State of Oregon, depends upon the success of the agricultural interest. Our arts, manufactures and transportation—for transportation and products are so nearly related one with the other that their interests should be harmonized as far as possible, for all must flourish and prosper or decline and perish upon the failure or success of agricultural interests.

An agricultural fair should be conducted in a business like manner for it certainly acts upon the people in an educational sense, and there certainly is a marked improvement from year to year in the general conduct and discipline of the people who attend the fairs, especially the young people The meeting and greeting of friends and acquaintances, the forming of new acquaintances, seeing and becoming better acquainted with the manners and customs of men, all is practical education in business tactics

I am happy to congratulate you on the success thus far I am fully aware of the unfavorable circumstances under which the Society has labored from the beginning It must be very gratifying to you as it is to us, to see the fine display being made here to-day in all the industrial departments, as well as in the fine arts and beauties of nature. And I feel it my duty as presiding officer to tender the thanks of the Society to the O and C R R Co for the public spirit they have displayed in erecting a platform and stopping all regular trains for the accommodation of the Society

Now ladies and gentlemen I would be neglectful of my duty did I not give a passing notice of what we have on exhibition. The Pavilion is filled to its utmost capacity and the specimens that are exhibited—the workmanship of the fair hands of the ladies that grace this assembly—is at once creditable to the heads that conceived the beautiful designs and the hands that executed and perfected them Oregon ladies celebrated not more for grace and beauty than for industry and intelligence have nobly contributed their quota to increase the interests of the Society

The arts are also represented by beautiful specimens of Oregon scenery also other paintings and drawings flowers and wreaths which indicate refined education and genius of the ladies We have specimens which would be ornaments to the parlor of the most refined in any State

The floral department has increased year by year, until now a large space in this pavilion is required to accommodate the great number of specimens of the floral kingdom They are the Creator s tokens of love beauty and purity

The fruit department was never so well represented and it is a source of gratification to know that we have here in our midst men who are devoting their lives to the science of pomology and testing thoroughly the adaptation of our climate and soil for the growth and propagation of all kinds of fruits The perfection of flavor is always noticed by all who test the fruit grown in Oregon

Farm and garden products are well represented It is settled beyond doubt that our State cannot be excelled for the production of cereals and all that is required of the farmers is to combine skill with labor and the soil yields a bountiful and sure crop, and the time is not far distant when the Willamette valley will be called the Egypt of America.

And again I cannot but congratulate the people and members of the Society on the grand display of stock at this Fair Gentlemen, who have means and enterprise have expended large sums of money in importing stock to the State of the highest type and I fear we do not appreciate the enterprise of such men as we should for I believe we have some as fine blood and as fine animals as can be found in any stock yard in any State of the Union Why not when we have selections of horses cattle sheep and swine that have been selected from the choice herds and stables in the Atlantic States Canada and England I feel proud to say that we can see here on exhibition all of the various breeds (or nearly so We also find poultry one of the industries of the farm well represented with some of the finest breeds and does credit to our Fair as well as to the exhibitors

And last but by no means least is the mechanical department which is well represented in all of its branches and what a gratification and source of pecuniary interest it would be to the people of this State if we could see upon every machine and wagon the bold letters Manufactured in Oregon

Now what I see here on exhibition of Oregon productions leads me to say, not in way of flattery but in candor that I believe if it was possible to bring side by side, our entire exhibition animal by animal cereal by cereal with any State in the Union that in quality Oregon would be seen carrying that glorious emblem of victory the blue ribbon But let us not be over wise with self conceit for we have [illegible] natural advantages to assist in many of [illegible] productions than any State in the Union But with all this we are lacking in some very important particulars in which our ultimate success and wealth and prosperity depends Among them are [illegible] commercial relations with ports of consumption [illegible] transportation [illegible] manufactory systems [illegible] [illegible] upon the part of the producing class

Now permit me to say that the farmer who carefully studies, as he should every [illegible] necessities [illegible] [illegible] State [illegible] [illegible] commerce as far as the [illegible] our country [illegible] [illegible] people [illegible] which would likely satisfy their wants [illegible]

[illegible] for the purpose of breaking [illegible] with any [illegible] that they may be prepared [illegible] farmers [illegible] we cannot bring our [illegible] upon [illegible] and [illegible] action we should assist by substantial aid in putting in operation immediately agricultural works of sufficient capacity to manufacture all our heavy machinery Why not and stop the immense drain of money that goes directly out of the State for machinery when we are satisfied that the freight and commission [illegible] very nearly equal to the cost of construction when we have all of the elements to construct it within ourselves

And as a great wheat growing State, we will never prosper as we should until we manufacture our agricultural implements And [illegible] action is necessary in order that we may have a first class agricultural and commercial paper This can be had if the farmers and mechanics will unite in the support and circulation of such a paper and make it able to furnish you with reliable information from the principal commercial parts of the world

All speculators as they are commonly called secure such information as the producer pays for it directly or indirectly We have the remedy but if we lack the system and unity of action to put in practice we should not complain of speculators.

If we would hasten a happy consummation we must open wide the doors of industry and unhesitatingly enter the portals. If we desire to forward the progress of events we should place our own shoulders to the wheel and not stand idly by and vainly invoke the aid of Omnipotence.

The farmer and producer wants information or in other words he wants education in all the channels of commerce, and in no way can he obtain it so cheap or so reliable as through an agricultural paper supported and controlled in the interest of the laboring classes

The present season has been one of prosperity to the farmers—for I am certain the prosperity that has crowned the farmer's labors with an abundant crop and a fair price has brought to this grand festival the thousands of cheerful faces to meet and exchange happy greetings with their fellow men Then why not unite the feelings of each in the welfare of all that all may be as one and dwell together in unity and purity throughout the ceaseless ages of eternity

And in conclusion allow me to say that the officers of this Society feel highly elated at the successful commencement of this Fair and if the weather should prove favorable, I hope none of you will have cause to regret your attendance this week It certainly is gratifying to see the good conduct of this concourse of people thrown together from all parts of our young and growing State.

And in taking my leave of you I will say the legitimate work of the Society is now commenced, and I hope that all who have a duty to perform as officers, will be promptly at their posts and committees on the various classes will be governed strictly by the printed rules of the Society

Are so well represented that the accommodations of the Society for them is taxed to the utmost although much increased this year Of the various popular breeds the Merinos are shown in the greatest numbers The exhibitors in this class are John Minto of Salem, who shows specimens of the American Spanish and French families T L Davidson and J L Parrish of Salem show Spanish Merinos and Master George Naylor son of the late T G Naylor Forest Grove who was one of the most enterprising breeders of sheep and horses that the State has yet produced and one of the best friends of the State Fair has representatives of French Spanish and American Merinos David Guthrie and Charles Miller show French Merinos Col Peter Saxe and Mr Minto as importers are here with [illegible] Spanish Merinos

ENGLISH BREEDS

Thomas Cross Salem shows in the list of Cotswolds, Leicesters and South Downs S G Reed Portland exhibited Leicesters Cotswolds and their grades Lucky A Wilson O [illegible] Wasco county [illegible] Cotswolds and B F Stewart & Sons of North Yamhill [illegible] in the same list John [illegible] John Minto and J L Parrish exhibit graded sheep for wool and mutton

[illegible] Saxe has four pens of sheep consisting of eight ewes and twelve bucks [illegible] among the latter are the two famous bucks Sampson and Royal George [illegible] and Lord Chief Among the ewes are Kentucky Bell and Victoria These ewes and bucks weigh from 250 to 300 pounds each and shear from 11 to 18 pounds of wool The Colonel values them at from $100 to $150 each The Oregon State Agricultural College bought five of these fine animals the Colonel giving them at cost price to encourage the institution

The exhibit of sheep is characterized by a spirit of enterprise and superior blood never equalled in Oregon

Mr M Wilkins of Lane county, and President of the State Agricultural Society exhibits a sample case of wool from his flock of Improved Oxfordshire sheep These samples are got up in a style that reflects the greatest possible credit on Mr Wilkins taste and enterprise and are the admiration of sheep farmers and visitors The wool is distinguished for its length strength and fineness of fibre and is adapted for making the finest delaine goods The samples on exhibition are from his flock of Improved Oxfords that yielded from 10 to 14 pounds to the fleece.

HOGS

Mr John Cross of Salem is the principal exhibitor, as yet, in this important department. He has four pens in which are twenty two head of pure Berkshires Among them are three very fine boars, and three equally choice breeding sows The balance of them are young These hogs are equal to any of the kind ever known in this State He gets $25 a pair for his three months suckers while the same would bring $100 each in the Eastern States Some farmers are slow to appreciate the importance of breeding from the best stock

Jacob Pfau, of Polk county, has on exhibition four young pigs of the pure Chester White stock raised by himself. He prefers them to any breed he has yet tried not excepting the famous Berkshires. They grow fast, fatten well and soon, and grow very [illegible] He values his young pigs at $30 a pair.

R. Flournoy, of Douglas county, has a six months Poland sow on exhibition. He claims for this breed that they are well [illegible] [illegible] fed, grow rapid and large. Some of them to his knowledge, weigh as much as 700 pounds

ROBBERY

Yesterday at 12 o'clock Mr David Newsom, on moving into a residence he had recently rented, discovered that it had been occupied by two men the night before. They had entered by breaking the lock, and had left behind them only an empty whisky bottle. At 10 o clock last night Mr Newsom retired, when the men again entered and ordered him to leave. On refusing to do so they turned away, taking with them a new coat and vest, in which were some private papers From there they went to a tent and appropriated two pair of blankets The rascals have not been heard from since that time

MACHINERY

All of the different kinds of farming and other machinery have not been brought on the grounds but there are several new designs that have never before made their appearance, which shows that genius is still at work to lighten the toil of all who work for a living, and to assist in building up a State and nation. One of the handiest and most complete economical arrangements that I noticed was a

GRAIN STEAMER,

Invented by a genuine Maine Yankee It is well calculated to be a handy arrangement on any farm, and while it answers the purpose of steaming grain, roots, etc., for stock It can be used for household washing or culinary purposes, or scalding hogs, fowls, etc.

HUSTAR'S GRAIN SEPARATOR,

Is well calculated to perform its special duty in removing chaff, seed and other [illegible] impurities from wheat. Being [illegible] worked, it will prove a great favorite with our farmers.

WAGONS AND CARRIAGES.

One of the most attractive vehicles on the ground is a one-horse buggy, made by Mr. Lindsey, of Salem For workmanship it will compare with any that can be gotten up in the oldest Eastern State Mr Lindsey came to this State two years ago He is one of the many [illegible] [illegible] we need. All the iron and woodwork in this buggy is his own [illegible] work

Near by stands a four-spring wagon, manufactured by Mr Charles Bowie, of [illegible] This wagon was critically examined by a great many, and pronounced good. It is capable of carrying four persons, or it can be loaded with wheat or other farm products to the weight of 1,200 pounds. The workmanship is excellent Mr Bowie has also several wagons of his own make, which are rapidly growing into favor with the community, who pronounce them superior to Eastern manufacture.

Alongside, stood several Tuttle Oregon wagons, manufactured in Portland (so I was informed) Competing manufacturers will have to look well to their laurels or these wagons will carry away the blue ribbon

MAYERS & [illegible],

Of Corvallis, have brought down one of their justly celebrated harrows They possess the two very important virtues of strength and lightness, and are capable of doing good work

THE CAPITAL LUMBERING COMPANY

Have on exhibition several plows of their make, also a splendid cultivator, of which they have purchased the right. They propose to manufacture, in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of this State They can be raised or lowered at will, to suit the nature of the soil and kind of work that is to be done.

I also noticed a new kind of bit for dressing burrs for gristmills, which, for completeness and simplicity excels anything I have ever seen

Mr J Sherill exhibited a

DOUBLE SHEAR CULTIVATOR,

Which he is manufacturing at Brownsville. I am informed that it is a successful instrument.

J W Hardison, of Independence, Polk county, has on exhibition a machine for

VITRIOLIZING WHEAT,

Which will thoroughly do its work at the rate of one hundred bushels an hour, and sack the grain at the same time It will not dampen the sacks sufficiently to wet them He proposes to manufacture them and supply all the farmers with a much needed article. The wheat passes through the vitrioled water and is then raised by an elevator and placed in a sack ready for the field without any great amount of labor being expended The price places the machine within the reach of all

Mr E Ellison, who undoubtedly is the best plow maker on the coast, has started a manufactory of the Buckeye Plows in Salem He has several now on the grounds on exhibition, the same ones with which he took the first premium over all competitors at the late Linn County Fair So satisfactorily have his plows worked that so far he can scarcely make them fast enough to supply the demand

THE PAVILION

John West has placed on exhibition several cases half barrels and kits of salmon which were cured at his fishery on the Columbia river in Oregon and the interest which is manifested and the amount of money expended in this comparatively new enterprise is well calculated to bring our State into notice as a superior country to invest capital The premium this year is a gold medal, valued at $50

Near by is a box with a glass face containing quite a number of Italian bees from the apiary of J W Wall of Aurora, Marion county They were the first of this species brought to this State so I am told They seemed to be much larger than the common honey bee. They are noted for their hardiness and industry By them stand several jars of strained honey which were much admired for clearness of [illegible]

Mr William Graves has enriched the show in the Pavilion by a superb collection of Oregon woods there being some 50 different species I noticed that Eastern people evince considerable surprise at the quality and beauty of our timber

RACES

At 2 30 P M the running race for horses [illegible] mile heats [illegible] for a first premium of $100 second premium $50, came off There were three entries Wm Gird named Buckskin Geo Ross named Trifle Logan Ceel named Sleepy John The first heat was won by Trifle in 1 55½, Buckskin second Sleepy John third The second heat was also won by Trifle in 1 55½, Buckskin second Sleepy John third The track was heavy and good time was out of the question

TO-DAY'S RECEIPTS

LAYING THE CORNER STONE

To-day the corner stone of the State Capitol at Salem is to be laid with impressive ceremonies by the Grand Lodge of Masons. It is to be an event of more than ordinary interest, and the occasion promises to be most felicitous. The time chosen, too, is an auspicious one. From the uttermost parts of the State the farmers have come up to the Eleusinia of the year. On every side are heard the rejoicings of the harvesters, "returning, bringing their sheaves with them." From valley and hill-top sounds the joyous chorus of harvest home. At the close of a year of abundant fruits of orchard and field it is eminently appropriate that the corner stone of our commonwealth should be thus consecrated in the name of Him who has granted to this people such bounteous blessing. During the year now closing no grave calamity has befallen us as a people. We have been spared the desolation by flood and fire which have afflicted many of our sister States. We have been free from all pestilence and plague. Goodness and mercy have followed us in all our lawful undertakings. Neither blight nor mildew has visited our fertile fields. Our granaries are bursting with their golden stores, and throughout the land quiet, contentment, good will and fraternal feeling prevail. The jarring discords of war are drowned in the sweet [illegible] of a lasting peace, and from the great heart of our people rises the swelling prelude to that great drama which Berkeley saw in his rapt vision. To these shores the stars of empire will yet come, and that before the symbolic corn and oil shall have wasted away. Looking to this future with reliant trust and singleness of purpose, let us keep steadily on to the proud destiny which the fathers who laid the corner stone of our Republic in the stress of war, committing thereto the [illegible] of their heroism—the Constitution of the Union—and sealing its every [illegible] with their blood, marked out in advance for us. Thus shall the firm [illegible] upon which we typically build to-day survive the iron tooth of Time and the [illegible] of Eternity.

SHOW YOUR PROOF.

Yesterday's Bulletin alleges that the OREGONIAN has for months past "filled its columns with gibes and thrusts at the course of the Republican party in this and other States." The allegation is pure [illegible] stated in execrable grammar. During the past few months the OREGONIAN has had occasion to comment on the course of the Republican party" in Iowa, in Ohio, in Massachusetts and in California. Reference to our files will show that we have published the platforms of the Republican party in every one of these States during that last [illegible]. With the single exception we have commended the action of the Conventions in these States. We put the [illegible] before the eyes of the people of Oregon with encomiums on the bravery and honesty of Gen. Butler [illegible]. We were the only paper in the State to publish the [illegible] of the Iowa platform and our [illegible] admiration of its sound doctrine accompanied that publication. The Republican Convention in Polk county adopted the Iowa platform entire as published in the OREGONIAN.

As to our action in the California election we did oppose the "regular" Republican nominations, and we did exult as becometh the upright in heart, when it was made manifest that those nominations were defeated. Our reasons are, briefly stated, as follows: It was a notorious fact that the Republican primaries and county conventions almost all over the State, were packed by the Central Pacific Railway Co. through their subservient tools; that in many instances the nominees of those conventions were men of questionable integrity, while in well-nigh every instance their allegiance to the railway monopoly was proven beyond all reasonable doubt. If any proof were wanting, it was supplied by the remarkable admission of Leland Stanford to the employes of the Central Pacific at Sacramento, when he confessed that "the result in California was a virtual defeat of the Central Pacific Company." The coils of the anaconda were slow circling about the prostrate form of the Republican party. Steadily its monstrous folds compassed the unresisting organization until Newton Booth, like another Achilles doing fierce battle with the Lernaean hydra, [illegible] upon the field at Platt's Hall, and by the magic of his tongue dealt the decisive blow which ransomed the people and disabled their tyrant. The OREGONIAN denounced the intrigues of the party managers who betrayed the Republican organization of California into the hands of a monopoly. And it shouted for joy when the people rose superior to caucuses and conventions, because there was something grand and inspiring in the spontaneous uprising of a State against its oppressors. It rejoiced that a people which had been handed over, bound hand and foot by the fetters of a false party fealty to a relentless conspiracy against public policy, rallied at the earnest call of that splendid ideal of the gentleman and scholar in politics, Newton Booth. Has the Bulletin read his grand words?

> "Standing in this presence, loving order as I love life, sworn to maintain it, and ready to redeem that oath with my life, conscious of my responsibility and weighing my words, looking the future earnestly in the face, I solemnly believe that the choice of the American people is between reform now and revolution hereafter."

That single sentence lifted him above the local strife and gave him a fame wide as the continent. The whole nation took up the glowing refrain, "Reform now or revolution hereafter," and echoed it from the Sierras to Plymouth Rock. It aided in the inspiration which penned the Massachusetts platform. It has become the battle-cry of the West in its death grapple with corporational power, and all over the broad land its beneficent influence is made manifest in the resolute tone of platforms and conventions.

This is the only case in which the OREGONIAN has opposed the "regular" action of the managers of the party. Does the Bulletin want to pursue the subject further?

THE BULLETIN'S "FEALTY."

Elsewhere we refute the accusation of the Bulletin—that during the past few months the columns of the OREGONIAN have "teemed with gibes and thrusts at the course of the Republican party in this and other States." It may not be unprofitable to consider just what the Bulletin has said concerning the course of the Republican party in other States.

The OREGONIAN has published the Massachusetts platform and applauded its demand for the return of the party to first principles. The Bulletin has neither published a line or uttered a word in commendation of the unquestioned excellence of that platform.

The OREGONIAN praised the brave words of the Convention in that State denouncing the undue interference of Federal officers in the political affairs of any State. The Bulletin has not uttered a single syllable on the subject.

The OREGONIAN has published the Iowa platform in full. The Bulletin did not even so much as inform its readers that a Convention had been held and that an election was pending in that State.

When it became evident that the issue in the California election was between the people and the rings; as soon as it was apparent that the railway power had captured the Republican Conventions in that State and had dictated their nominations, the OREGONIAN espoused the cause of the people to the extent of its ability. It sympathized with the best of the Republican journals—the Union, the Call, and that Nestor of the California press, the San Francisco Bulletin. It presented to its readers the matchless eloquence of Newton Booth and when the victory had been won and the monopoly had confessed itself beaten, it congratulated the people of California on their magnificent victory and urged the Republicans of Oregon to emulate the illustrious example. We have since been informed by two of the most prominent Grangers in that State that the farmers of California were united in their opposition to the "regular" ticket. The Bulletin copied one editorial article from the Record, the recognized organ of the Central Pacific Company. Its sympathies, naturally enough, were lavished on that monopoly. Thus it arrayed itself against the farming communities, and feebly assayed, in one instance, to commend the Central Pacific with its Contract and Finance iniquity, and other gross corruptions to the farmers of Oregon.

This is the contrast between the Bulletin and the OREGONIAN. Our adversary stands convicted on the indictment it had prepared for this paper. There is nothing surprising in the course of the Bulletin. It could not endorse the Massachusetts platform because its associate editor and chief henchmen are Federal officers, who were engaged in packing the Albany Convention when the Massachusetts struggle was going on. It could not endorse the Iowa platform because it declared "the duty of every Republican to oppose improper nominations on our own or any other ticket." It could not endorse the Ohio platform with its ringing denunciation of transportation monopolies. So the Bulletin shut tight its mouth. And it has opened it only to bark at a journal whose devotion to the party means something higher than servile submission to the edict of rings and the domination of cliques.

The Republic, a magazine published in Washington, whose "primary object" is stated by itself to be "the securement of good government, the ascendency of the Republican party, and the strengthening of the hands of honest men within that party," has something to say on the question that divides the Republican party of Oregon to-day:

> The best party that can be organized by the wisdom, intelligence and patriotism of the nation will at times be led into the support of men who will prove unworthy of public confidence. To endorse the acts of these men would be to transfer their iniquity to the party itself; to promptly repudiate them is to elevate the party above reproach or censure. We have faith in the party that stands guard over the actions of its servants; that is ready to repudiate whatever is wrong; that is independent enough to exact from its leaders the highest qualities of personal character and official integrity. The republic can never be in danger when so true and loyal a power guides the administration of its affairs.

Just add that to Harper's dose, Mr. Bulletin.

Mr. Postmaster Filley, of St. Louis, who was detected a few weeks ago in levying assessments on the clerks in his office, has telegraphed a defense to Mr. Creswell. He says that the contribution was voluntary on the part of his clerks, and that it has not been used for repairs in the postoffice, nor for entertaining anybody. He says the whole amount contributed was $1,648, and that it has been returned to the contributors. At the time of sending his defense, he had just seen the civil service rule, forbidding assessments and contributions, and he hastened "to acknowledge his error." Of course he puts in the accustomed plea that he is the victim of persecution, etc. Perhaps postoffice clerks are in the habit of making voluntary contributions of $100, but until that is proven, we shall hold the convicted postmaster's "contribution" dodge rather "too thin."

The New York Republican Convention let Attorney-General Barlow down to his long political rest very tenderly. Just before it met, a number of the most prominent members of the New York bar, among whom were Wm. M. Evarts, Edward Salomon and Dorman B. Eaton, published in the Times an open letter requesting Mr. Barlow to allow his name "to be presented, through the Convention, to the people for the office of Attorney-General." After the requisite season of hemming and hawing, he consented. Somehow the Convention decided to nominate a candidate on its own responsibility. Benj. D. Silliman, of Brooklyn, is the nominee. Whether or not a faint odor of Erie clung to the official garments of Mr. Barlow is not stated. It is sometimes injudicious in the friends of aspirants to anticipate the wishes of the people.

Over the North Western Stage Company's routes from La Grande to Walla Walla, Pendleton and the Dalles, there is annually consumed 928,800 pounds of grain, and 619 tons of hay. The cost of the grain is one and one-half cents per pound, amounting to $13,932. The hay averages $25 per ton, and amounts to $15,475. These two items alone amount to nearly $30,000.

A couple of English tourists passed through Walla Walla last week for Mount Idaho, where they contemplate settling. They had 600 pounds of baggage, principally shotguns and fishing tackle, which they had brought from the "Old Country, you know."

A SPICY LETTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I had hoped that the moral lessons given you by the New Northwest on the duties of a partisan editor, would be sufficient to bring you to a realizing sense of the enormity of your late political course. I did not so much wonder that the stormy, though righteous, denunciation of the Bulletin failed to reach your political conscience, but when the gentle chidings and tender exhortations of Sister Duniway did not gain from you so much as a passing notice, I said in my heart, "He is morally dead." But remembering that "no man ever sins beyond the reach of God's abounding mercy," I feel constrained to add to the voice of feminine entreaty, hoping that our sex may be the humble means in the hands of Providence of bringing you to a speedy conversion. A few months ago you occupied the proud and responsible position of editor-in-chief of a journal that was an honor to the party it professed to serve. To-day "you wallow in all immoral nastiness," the publisher of a vile sheet, that pure-minded women blush to read, and true Republicans everywhere repudiate. Who can turn from the chaste pages of the Bulletin and New Northwest, whose every expression bears the impress of purity, and contemplate the coarse and indecent language of the OREGONIAN without a shiver of disgust? The OREGONIAN is a stench in the nostrils of all people with brains enough above their ears to appreciate the gentlemanly career of the brilliant and influential Mr. Mitchell. The OREGONIAN is a disgrace to the State, and you, Mr. Editor, are personally as offensive as your paper. You are a bald-headed, glass-eyed, woman-insulting, lawyer-defrauding mass of ugliness. This information I have received from the Bulletin, and the Bulletin cannot lie. You are an anti-Christian, anti-human, devil-possessed monster, and have "lost sight of all journalistic honor, all philanthropy and nobleness in the vindictive pursuit of the one single object of your hate." This I have learned from the New Northwest, and the New Northwest is too pure-minded and kind-hearted to misrepresent anybody. You are possessed of a malicious demon that can only be exorcised by a rigorous scourging with a political cat-o'-nine-tails. Already you have been made to "squirm" under the flagellations of a Mrs. Duniway, who, while witnessing your contortions, was led impulsively to exclaim, "Let him writhe—it's good for him." This language may seem cruel, when compared with the sweet, womanly cries of pity that escape her when the whip of justice is cracked over the back of poor Mitchell. But we must remember that "circumstances alter cases." Mitchell is possessed of a comeliness that appeals to the finest sensibilities of one's nature, and is endowed with a subtle magnetism that captivates the senses and lays hold of the affections. When he "squirms" office-holders and aspirants are bathed in tears and Mrs. Duniway wrings her hands in anguish; because, you see, he holds the key to woman's rightful heritage, as well as the keys of all the federal offices. But to return to your reprehensible conduct. You are pouring out the vial of your filthy imaginings on our Senator, hoping to so poison the minds of Republicans against him, that they will refuse to support the regular nominee—the intrepid "Hiram who bears the ark," because he rolls the Mitchell resolution as a sugar-coated morsel under his tongue. Now that resolution is perfectly right and proper, and Mr. Smith indorses it, and believes in it, and carries it next to his heart, but he does not stand on it. Any man who says Hiram Smith stands on that resolution is a "liar and a villain." Any man who says that resolution is any part of the Republican platform, or of the Albany Convention, or is in any manner connected with politics, is a malicious thief, a prowling murderer and a brutal dog. That resolution is nothing more nor less than a handsome compliment paid to Senator Mitchell in consideration of the spotless purity of his private life during the thirteen years he has resided in our State; a tribute of Christian forgiveness for the "indiscretions, faults and follies" of his early life, which, upon strict investigation, are found to reflect upon him more of credit than dishonor. Senator Mitchell could make his early record clear as the noonday sun in the minds of the people, could he stoop to so humiliate himself, as to notice the vile accusation of crimes, the very names of which it is base obscenity to utter. And now, in the face of all these facts, O, filthy-minded Republicans, you who "are of the scum of the worst purlieus of vice," will you fold your hands and stand idly by and see a Democratic mass of corruption and vice go sailing into a Congressional seat under an alias? If so, I consign you to oblivion—to utter annihilation. But the object of this letter is to call W. Lair Hill, my old friend, to repentance; therefore let me not forget to close my remarks with an appropriate exhortation. Brother Hill, turn, I beseech you, from the error of your ways; repent even at this, the eleventh hour, and verily you shall have your reward. Go to, our worthy Senator, the Hon. John Hiram Hipple Mitchell, without an alias, take him by the hand, look into the windows of his soul, and say to him, in the language of Ruth, the Moabitess: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go," and there will I serve thee; thy morals shall be my morals, thy conscience my conscience, thy politics my politics, and thy nominee my nominee. Do this, O! brother, and thy scalp will at once be clothed with a silky vestment, thy glass-eye will become a beautiful orb of vision, thy brain speedily gravitate to thy tophead, and thy political character be made spotless as the driven snow.

As it is becoming quite fashionable for people of note to sail under an alias, will you please allow me the euphonious signature of

NABBIE SNIGGLEFRITZIE.

NIL DESPERANDUM!
Lively Times Ahead!

ISAAC BLUM'S thousand-and-one patrons will be glad to learn that he is again in receipt of those old and favorite private brands, which in flush times used to occasion such a rush to his Cigar Stand, namely the "ESPANOLAS" and "DELICIAS," considered by connoisseurs the best 12 1-2 cent Cigars in the market.

The "OREGON BABY" still flourishes, and this and the "PROGRESS CLUB" Cigars come regularly to hand, and recent invoices are recommended as being of better quality than ever.

Imported Cigars received by every steamer, among these a choice Cigar, (WARRANTED GENUINE HAVANA IMPORTATION,) which will be sold TWO FOR 25 CENTS. These Cigars are NOT very profitable to the seller but they suit the consumer, which is all that is required.

A HANDSOME SCROLL —Multnomah Co No 2 with their proverbial enterprise and laudable ambition to be recognized abroad will not be unrepresented at the interesting ceremonies at the laying of the corner stone of the State Capitol to-day Among the many articles which are to be deposited under the corner stone, will be a very handsome scroll of parchment which the company have had prepared for the occasion This scroll is about 14x20 inches At the top is a silver badge pinned securely to the parchment, on which are engraved skillfully the figure of a steam fire engine with the words below "Multnomah Co No 2 Portland Oregon, organized Sept 13th 1850" Just below the badge on the parchment ranged in rows and printed with a pen in beautiful style are the names of the present officers of the company, of which there are six Following the officers come the names of the exempt firemen of the company, of whom there are 44 Below these are written the names of the active members of whom there are 80 The whole design is handsome, and the work has been executed in the first style of the art of penmanship It is a very neat, tasty piece of work, of which the company should feel proud and is well worthy to take its appropriate place along with the records of the State the cherished mementoes of the Mystic Tie and the numerous other articles which are to be deposited in a niche of the corner stone on which is to rest the lofty and beautiful edifice of the State

BIRDSEYE MAPLE —Yesterday Mr Dan Holton exhibited to us several specimens of veneering made from birdseye maple, which is met with in great abundance along many of the watercourses of Oregon A piece of the wood is cut transversely to any desirable thickness, from one-eighth of an inch to two inches The surface is then smoothed off with a plane, after which one or more coats of alcohol and shellac are applied. This imparts a surface as fine and uniform as polished marble The translucent varnish shows clearly the gnarled course of the grain of the wood. For all descriptions of furniture, veneering, picture frames, etc, this maple is fully equal to if not more handsome than black walnut. Mr Holton has had several men engaged for several months in getting out large blocks of the birdseye maple, along the Cowlitz river He has now large quantities of this wood scattered along the banks of that stream, awaiting shipment The stage of water is very low in the Cowlitz river, and boats are unable to reach points to which the wood is accessible. The present rain will swell the volume of water, enabling the wood to be transported to the Columbia It will then be placed on board a sailing vessel and shipped to San Francisco From there it will be shipped, via Cape Horn, to New York

PICKING UP STUMPS.—We have frequently observed Chinamen walking about the streets of the city between sundown and dusk, picking up from the gutters all the stray cigar stumps which they can find There can be little doubt but what these discarded stumps are sold to some of the Chinese cigar manufacturers of the city. These refuse portions are carefully unrolled and worked over again into [illegible] Havanas (?) and vended to an innocent and unoffending public. We have no desire to create undue prejudice against the products of Chinese labor, or say aught which would injure their traffic, but judging of the [illegible] of cupidity and avarice for which this peculiar race is so characteristic the most probable conclusion is that these stumps are [illegible] John is proverbial for turning anything to account, and he would not gather up, at the expense of labor and time cigar stumps but for the purpose of utilizing them.

MORE NEW SIDEWALKS —Mr. Hubbard has served notices on a number of property holders in the burnt district, requiring the construction of new sidewalks in that portion of the city These improvements are to be completed within fifteen days from date of the notice. The notice will require new sidewalks to be laid on [illegible] side of all the streets running east and west from Front to Second streets. First street will be omitted, or at least a [illegible] on each side until such time as the matter of the widening of that thoroughfare is definitely settled by the Common Council. Such improvements will commence at Yamhill street and extend south to the limits of the fire in that district New sidewalks will not only improve that portion of the city, so far as concerns appearances, but will be conferring a great [illegible] on a perambulating public

A "FALL" IN WHEAT —The accumulation of wheat in the store-rooms and on the several wharves in this city during the past fortnight has been very great, and at present there are probably not less than 300,000 bushels stored here. Yesterday about 2 o clock the upper story of the north half of the O. S. N Co s new wharf, upon which about 10,000 bushels, besides a lot of machinery were stored, gave way with a loud crash, and went through to the [illegible] floor, upon which was also piled a large lot of grain in sacks Fortunately the lower portion of the wharf was of sufficient strength to bear the immense pressure, and the whole was thus saved from going into the river beneath, in which case the loss would have been considerable. As it was the damage is slight, and will be easily repaired

CONTRACT LET —A contract has been let. for the laying of new sidewalks around the property belonging to the estate of the late Wm Cree, on Stark street The lineal feet of sidewalk to be constructed around this property will be 250 Two hundred feet will be laid along on the north side of Stark, between Front and First streets Twenty-five feet will be laid at each end, east and west, As the contract has been let, nothing can longer delay the beginning of this much needed improvement, but rainy weather and the scarcity of lumber

NUMBER OF CASES.—As will be perceived by referring to the Circuit Court Calendar, published in another column, there are on the docket 217 cases to be tried at the coming term Of these 143 are equity or law cases, and 74 are chancery suits Among the latter suits are the usual compliment of applications for release from the obligations imposed by the marital vow Besides the above cases there will be a number of criminal prosecutions to report after the meeting of the grand jury

HITCHED ON —A sailing vessel was observed standing out to sea on last Monday She was supposed to be the Spirit of the Dawn, which is overdue at this port Immediately the tug Varuna started out to bring her in The tug hitched on but was unable to make any headway against the wind and tide, and consequently abandoned the attempt When the Astoria steamer left the tug had not returned Ere this time, it is quite probable the vessel has crossed the bar

PROSPERITY —Our neighbor the Pacific Christian Advocate seems to be greatly prospering They offer to their subscribers for next year three splendid chromos said to be equal to any chromo premiums offered by any newspaper in the United States Their circulation is increasing [illegible] They say they are going to furnish the best family paper on the coast There is some talk of enlarging We are glad to see these evidences of prosperity

NOT YET COMMENCED —Scarcity of brick and the great rush of work in the burnt district has thus far prevented the commencement of the masonry work on the new cisterns excavation for which was finished last week The intention of the contractor was to begin work this week but should the present weather continue there is a strong probability that the masonry work will be delayed for some time to come

VOTING PLACES —The inquiry has been raised as to where the voters of the several precincts in this city and county will exercise their right of suffrage next Monday no polling places having yet been designated by the authorities in an official manner Some of the places in this city used as voting places cannot be so used now, being occupied for other purposes

TRIAL TRIP —Steam was raised on board the steamer [illegible] yesterday afternoon and the trial trip was made The steamer went up the river some distance and returned to her wharf. The [illegible] is a very handsome craft, and ploughs beautifully through the water For her size she will travel up with any boat on the river

OUT IN THE STREAM —As the Annie Stewart came up the river yesterday she passed the bark Free Trade at Walker s Island She was hauled out in the stream the pilot had gone on board and the vessel was ready to go down to Astoria. The Free Trade is loaded with cottonwood bolts for San Francisco

UNDER CHARTER —The brig Orient was drawn alongside Carter s wharf yesterday morning She is under charter by parties in San Francisco to carry a cargo of grain there Up to the time the rain began to descend in torrents a number of men were engaged in placing quantities of wheat on board

SHIPMENT OF TREASURE —During the month of September the following amounts of treasure have been shipped from this place by Wells Fargo & Co Currency $22 790 coin $352 450 bullion $63 092 silver $22 140 Total, $460 477

SCHOONER SUPERIOR —This vessel arrived at Astoria on Monday in tow of the tug Varuna She came from San Francisco with an assorted cargo

ARRIVED —The steamer Ajax from San Francisco, arrived at this port at 2 10 o clock this morning

TRINITY CHURCH GUILD

The regular meeting of the Church Guild was held last Monday evening at Trinity Chapel The meeting was opened in the prescribed manner by Rt Rev B W Morris, President

Minutes of previous meetings were read and approved.

Rt Rev. B W Morris presented the name of Mr Arthur Crisfield for membership There being no objections the candidate was admitted

Rev Mr Burton, Chairman of the Missionary Committee, reported having twice visited [illegible]ville, and that he had also had services at the same place on Sunday afternoon

Rev. Mr Rosenberg, Chairman of the Committee on Public Institutions, reported that there were twenty-one inmates of the county jail eighty-two inmates in the asylum and seventy-one paupers in the poor house, that Rev Mr Burton had offered to conduct two services at the county jail every month, that Mr Arthur Crisfield had offered to conduct lay services at the same place twice a month, that Mr D W C Jones had offered to conduct two services every month at the poor farm, or at any other place and recommended that the inmates of the institutions named be furnished more liberally with reading matter of a religious and entertaining character

On motion, a warrant on the Treasurer was ordered drawn in favor of Mr Sutherland for $5, for extra services for teaching the Chinese school

Rev Mr Rosenberg speaking concerning the services, &c., at the different public institutions, alluded to the pleasing and beneficial results of the distribution of papers and periodicals among the inmates thereof, and hoped he would be able to continue the good work by having a sufficient supply of such papers placed at his disposal, as those heretofore provided were inadequate to the demand

Under a call for filling the vacancies in the standing committees, Rev. Mr Burton spoke at length, called up the subject of providing for admitting persons to honorary membership, alluded to the project of allowing women to become members of the Guild, and read an extract from the New York Spirit of Missions, concerning the great and good work accomplished by the ladies of the different benevolent societies connected with the church in that city.

Rev Mr. Rosenberg spoke of the necessity of having lay assistance in the execution of the work of the Guild, was opposed to the increase of the amount of the monthly dues referred to by Rev Mr Burton and warmly favored the idea of admitting women to membership.

The Bishop favored the last mentioned subject, suggested that the Secretary give due notice of the meetings to the clergy and other members, and called the attention of the Guild to the necessity of caring for the Sunday Schools to be opened at the mission chapel, South Portland, and in Watson's Addition

On motion of Mr Dodd, the Secretary was instructed to notify delinquents of the amount of their dues

Mr. D W. C Jones gave notice of amendments to the Constitution in regard to admitting women to membership, in regard to monthly dues, and concerning honorary membership

On motion adjourned

A DISTINGUISHED INVESTIGATOR —A youth emulous of the fame of Dickens recently attempted to explore some of the dens of poverty and wretchedness in London He visited some of the riverside haunts of the Rogue Riderhood class and having managed to scrape acquaintance with two of the natives was persuaded to accompany them home that they might show him what he wanted to see They led him through a labyrinth of dingy courts into a house and here while one of them held the luckless youth on the ground the other anointed his head with a mixture of coal oil and molasses and afterward covered him with flour The whole neighborhood collected to see the fun and all joined in pelting their victim from their domain with every kind of filthy missile. The young man has concluded his investigation

THE VASQUEZ BANDITS —The San Jose Mercury of September 30th gives this late and valuable information about these gentry

From Sheriff Adams we learn that Moreno and Oliveras the two Vasquez bandits who were captured at Priest Valley were examined on Saturday last before Justice McCandless of Salinas City. The former was committed to await the action of the grand jury upon the testimony of Audon Neiva the confessed criminal who testified that he saw Moreno kill the Portuguese sheep herder at Tres Pinos The latter party was discharged the evidence being insufficient to substantiate the charges brought against him Lorenzo Vasquez one of the witnesses for the defense is now held by Sheriff Wasson of Monterey county on a charge of complicity in the late robbery and massacre Audon Neiva testifying that he harbored the criminals and received a portion of their plunder His examination will take place in Salinas City on Saturday From descriptions given and confessions made by Neiva Sheriff Adams is satisfied that the man he stopped in the vicinity of Bakersfield and searched was one of the principal criminals in the gang but at that place there was no jail and as the arrest would have detained him more than a day he did not feel warranted in making it. He has also been put in possession of information giving the precise course taken by Vasquez in his flight and his escape from the officers was indeed miraculous But three of the bandits are now at large

THE TOURNAMENT

SALEM Oct 7th 1873

It is a bad day for base ball, and players are looking blue at the prospect An Oregon mist is upon us, and the dampness promises fair for a good week s rain Over here near the fence in this cane-shaped tent the Pioneers have located and here also is the base ball headquarters Coming in I find a group of representatives from all the clubs each one advocating his own view as to the probability of its clearing up and all earnestly and vigorously anathematizing the weather-clerk I learn the following particulars Last night delegates from all the clubs intending to enter met and arranged the following programme

Tuesday at 1 P M Pioneers vs Unknown
Wednesday 9 A M College vs Pacific
Thursday 2 P M Pioneers vs College

What change the rain will make in this can not at present be conjectured The game set for this afternoon cannot of course come off The Unknown are a new nine organized for the occasion and propose to carry the brush The grounds are in an execrable condition and the managers of the Fair deserve the severest censure for permitting them to remain as they now are Men are at work to-day leveling the ground and putting up a back-stop—things that should have been done two weeks ago The Forest City were last night ruled out of the Tournament for not sending a delegation An effort is being made to-day to have them admitted and they will probably come in to night The College and Pacifics are confident of victory The Forest City are all fine looking fellows, and if permitted to enter will make it lively for somebody As for the Pioneers, they have friends here, plenty of them and will not go back on their record The boys are having a jolly time in the tent, despite the dreary outside. Just as I write, a bucketful of cider is handed in for the Pioneers, with the compliments of Mrs Barlow. The boys are doing it justice for the donor s sake and Mrs Barlow has our thanks "A woman s an angel &c

Many valuable horses die from the effects of colic The best thing to do in a case of this kind is to pour a bottle of Johnson s Anodyne Liniment into a long necked junk bottle add half pint of molasses and water then pour the whole down the horse s throat. In ten minutes the horse will begin to eat.

GRAND MASONIC DISPLAY

GREAT GATHERING OF MASONS IN PHILADELPHIA—OVER 150 000 STRANGERS PRESENT—BRILLIANT SCENE AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC—DRILL AND REVIEW OF KNIGHTS TEMPLARS—A SPLENDID BALL

PHILADELPHIA Sept [illegible] —It seems as if the entire country had poured in its population and the mass had become centred in Philadelphia. To-night the Quaker City shelters at least 150 000 strangers who have arrived here since Tuesday to be present at the grand ceremonies of the dedication of the Masonic Temple to-morrow. Not only is every hotel taxed to its utmost capacity, but private residences are invaded. It is doubtful whether the coming Centennial will call together at one particular period such a vast multitude as is here at present. As a beginning to the coming ceremonies R W Samuel C Perkins Grand Master of Masons in Pennsylvania held a levee in the Grand Lodge room at the old Masonic Temple where he received the visiting members of adjacent Grand Lodges. Among those who attended the levee were R W Elwood E Thorne Deputy Grand Master of New York, R W John W Simons Grand Treasurer, R W Dr James M Austin Grand Secretary, all of New York; William C Pine Grand Master of New Jersey and officers; John Nichols, Grand [illegible] of North Carolina; J D Nickerson Grand Master of Massachusetts; [illegible] H Battin Grand Master of Ohio; Joseph N Underhill [illegible] Grand Chapter of Ohio; William Taylor, Deputy Grand Master of Nova Scotia; John H B Latrobe, Grand Master of Maryland; Francis Burns Deputy Grand Master of M[illegible]; James Jinkinson Past Grand [illegible] of New York; Samuel D Irwin Grand [illegible] of Georgia; John Collins McCabe Grand M[illegible] of Delaware; Thomas H Logan, Grand Master of West Virginia and several hundred others of the evening was the grand ball at the Academy of Music and Horticultural Hall styled the Grand Tourney of Knights Templars. The [illegible] Opera House, decked in its holiday attire, was in a perfect bl[illegible] of glory and gaslight. At least 15,000 people attended this fete. The Academy and Horticultural Hall were connected by a covered avenue leading from the former to the latter. The decorations of this covered way were gorgeous and imposing. The floor [illegible] and the [illegible] on either side bung with the escutcheons of all nations. The parquette of the Academy was floored over. The background of the stage was formed of a tented field scene, with all the war implements as a relief. Five elaborately embroidered banners of local Commanderies were suspended from the flies, and a banner, with a [illegible] in the center, formed of [illegible], hung from the center of the [illegible]. The brilliant uniforms of the Knights [illegible] attires of the ladies [illegible] a highly pleasing contrast to the scene [illegible] for dancing that was simply an impossibility. The jam was thorough, and locomotion [illegible] be accomplished only at a small pace. Two bands of music occupied the orchestra of the [illegible] and a similar musical force was [illegible] the Horticultural Hall

[illegible] the Sir Knights inaugurated the evening [illegible] during which the most intricate evolutions peculiar to this mystic order were [illegible], led by Sir Knight Jerry L [illegible], Past Grand Commander of the [illegible] reviewed by R. E. G[illegible] Commander [illegible] Waldman, of Pennsylvania [illegible] formed by the [illegible] the march were the [illegible] Cross, [illegible] Cross, the Cross of Salem and [illegible] of the decorations

[illegible] of pearl, and which is valued [illegible]. The banquet was on the European [illegible] all hours [illegible] of Philadelphia [illegible] of the [illegible] efficient. [illegible] the ball [illegible] and the [illegible] are [illegible] of day will overtake the [illegible]

[illegible] of Philadelphia and visitors will [illegible] at eight [illegible] morning. It promises to be [illegible]. As great as the crowd was [illegible] for four blocks from the Academy [illegible] to keep [illegible] on Broad street as far north [illegible] and added largely in [illegible] scene on the street. [illegible] Philadelphia reap a fine harvest

[illegible] OF THE SCOURGE IN THE CAPITAL OF SIAM

The following is an extract from a private [illegible] from Bangkok

[illegible] is raging here. There is a prison [illegible] 200 yards from my house, exactly one-[illegible] of the prisoners in which have died, and [illegible] have been or are sick. In the [illegible] to this the gardeners have been [illegible] in a fortnight. In our garden there [illegible] but few cases, and these have been [illegible] at once and have been happily [illegible] laudanum, chlorodyne and brandy in [illegible] and camphor water and acetate [illegible] resort. The panic has been [illegible]. For one or two days, at the worst [illegible], the place seemed almost a city of the [illegible] the boats of foreigners one saw no [illegible] moving in the [illegible] busy river. The [illegible] to have fled to their inner rooms, [illegible] one felt almost alone. The great nobles [illegible] shut themselves up, their slaves and retainers fled to the [illegible], the courts were [illegible]. I sent my boy to buy rice. He went the [illegible] of the chief market, a market [illegible] a mile and a half long, and could not buy that first article of food. The rice boats [illegible] the [illegible] stricken city, and famine seems to [illegible]

[illegible] A DIFFICULTY

THE ST LOUIS BRIDGE—A TRIUMPH OF ENGINEERING

St. Louis, Sept 19 —The two center sections of the arch [illegible] the [illegible] abutment and the [illegible] pier of the bridge here, each consisting of an upper and lower rib, were completed yesterday, thus demonstrating the feasibility of the original plan. This is regarded as one of the greatest triumphs of engineering skill the world has ever seen. The two [illegible] ribs of this arch which are only partially constructed, will be finished at once. The three grand arches of the bridge are expected to be finished by the middle of December

NED O BALDWIN

THE IRISH GIANT SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IMPRISONMENT

A Philadelphia dispatch of Sept 18th says

About six months ago the celebrated Irish giant, Ned O Baldwin, was arraigned for knocking a man's eye out with a walking stick and jumping his bail fled the city. Some time after he returned to town he engaged in some other personal encounter was followed again and safely lodged behind stone doors. To-day a trial was afforded him and after consultation the jury returned a verdict in accordance of which O Baldwin was sentenced to prison for two years

VICTORIA WOODHULL [illegible] INTENTION [illegible] ELECTED [illegible] THE PYTHONESS

Chicago Sept 1[illegible] The National Spiritualists Convention adjourned last night after electing Victoria C Woodhull President and listening to a lecture in which she [illegible] her peculiar doctrines in [illegible] that the local papers refuse to print [illegible]

At the meeting [illegible] in Washington on the [illegible] to consider the expediency of taking some step [illegible] the distress [illegible] of New York [illegible] it was decided that the Secretary of the Treasury had lawful power in his discretion to draw upon the $44 000 000 legal tender reserve [illegible] direction was given that officer to make the draft or opinion expressed that it should be made. The same meeting also decided not to make any further purchases of bonds for the very good reason that the currency [illegible] of the Treasury [illegible] further purchases [illegible] bonds [illegible] portion of the $44 000 000 [illegible] New York Tribune says that at the time the order for the purchase of the $12 000 000 of bonds was made the currency balance of the Treasury was about $14 000 000. The major portion of this balance consisted of legal tender notes. The statement is now authorized that the purchases of bonds have been made without the use of any portion of the legal tender reserve until that the currency balance has alone been employed for these purchases

The rumor current in New York that the Treasury Department will deliver the bonds to parties who have sold them at the selling price at the request of the sellers within a few days is without foundation. There is no warrant for such action. The purchases by the Secretary of the Treasury have been in accordance with existing laws and any delivery of the bonds to the sellers would be equivalent to a new issue. There can be no issue of bonds except in accord with some specific law. There is no law which authorizes the Secretary to advance currency upon bonds as collateral security

The Tribune of Sept 26th gives the situation in Wall street at that time as follows

A large number of the banking houses have practically suspended those which still pay cash over their counters are straining every nerve to see which can hold out the longest. In the entirely suspended establishments the clerks are busily engaged in ascertaining the exact amount of their liabilities the assets and the sums which can be realised from their sale. In the brokerage houses, which have suspended a similar course is being pursued. In those which were solvent when the Stock Exchange closed the parties have no idea whether they are worth anything or not; they merely wait with folded hands until business is resumed, when the matter will be set at rest. The banks only pay small checks in greenbacks but large drafts are responded to by a tender of certified checks. These yesterday were at a half per cent. discount, and it is doubtful whether checks representing very large amounts could buy greenbacks at even that rate. Representatives of country banks and banking houses were about in Wall street all day trying to get their New York deposits and seeking aid at any price
